ABOUT THE ARTIST

Giovanni Corrodus, a Jamaican native, began taking piano lessons at age eleven. He later attended Northern Caribbean University (NCU) and studied piano under Mr. Edison Valencia and Dr. Kaestner Robertson. He completed the course work for the Bachelor of Arts in music and also obtained Bachelor of Science in computer science from NCU. He was the student teaching assistant in the areas of music theory and ear training at NCU, and was also an active member of the NCU Chamber Ensemble, where he performed and periodically conducted the choir. More recently, he has performed with the Andrews University Singers and Andrews University Chorale, and he has conducted a portion of Bernstein's Chichester Psalms with the latter. Giovanni is currently pursuing a Master of Music in choral conducting at Andrews University and holds the position of graduate assistant for music theory and ear training in the music department at Andrews University.
