Nun will die Sonn’ so hell aufgehen – Heinrich Heine

Now is the sun about to rise so bright, as if no ill had befallen in the night. Ill has befallen me alone; the sun – it shines for everyone. You must not confine the night within, but must immerse it in light everlasting. In my firmament a light has failed, welcome be the glad light of the world!

Sommerabend – Heinrich Heine

Dusky lies summer evening over forest and green meadow; from blue sky a golden moon shines fragrant, reviving, down. By the brook the cricket chirps, there is a stirring in the water, the wanderer hears a splashing and a breathing in the stillness. There, by the brook, alone, the fair elf bathes; arms and neck, white and lovely, shimmer in the moonlight.
