

Online Nursing Program Ranked in Top 25

Best Colleges rates Andrews

Agenda | Posted on January 15, 2015

Photo by Darren Heslop, IMC staff photographer

by Lucero Castellanos-Guirre

The Andrews University School of Health Professions' online Master of Science in Nursing program has recently been ranked among the top 25 programs of its kind. BestColleges.com placed Andrews at number 15.

“We in the Department of Nursing are honored to have this program listed among the top programs in the country,” shared Karen Allen, chair of the Department of Nursing. “While strong leadership and great faculty and staff in the Andrews University Department of Nursing contributed to this success, all the glory goes to God. We thank Him for this honor and distinction in our graduate education.”

Over the next ten years the nursing sector is expected to see nearly 20 percent job growth, leading to a significant increase in working professionals who are seeking career advancement. The master's in nursing online degree is flexible and convenient for those searching for balance between work, family and school.

“This honor comes at a momentous time in the department,” said Allen. “We plan to launch our online Doctor of Nursing Practice degree in the summer of 2015, to serve even more students.”

The department is confident in the platform established for this new doctorate online program and has high hopes for its success.

For more information about the School of Health Professions, including how to enroll in either online or onsite nursing programs, visit andrews.edu/nursing.

Contact:

PR

pr@andrews.edu

269-471-3322