

Presenters for these short courses include Garrison Hayes, MDiv student and student chaplain; Michael Polite, associate chaplain; Vanessa Corredera, assistant professor of English; and Cliff Allen, a 2014 history graduate of Andrews University.

Black History Month wraps up with three showings of the current popular film, “Hidden Figures.” This film tells the true story of three African American women in the 1960s who provide NASA with crucial mathematical data needed to launch the program’s first successful space missions. Admission is free; valid Andrews ID required for admittance. Please note that these dates have changed from the originally scheduled dates due to a decision by the film studio.

Saturday, March 11 (valid Andrews ID required)

7:30 p.m.

Newbold Auditorium, Buller Hall

Saturday, March 11 (those with student ID only)

10 p.m.

Newbold Auditorium, Buller Hall

Sunday, March 12 (family friendly)

7 p.m.

Newbold Auditorium, Buller Hall

“Throughout the month we want to encourage people from all backgrounds to consider prayer, protest and promise,” says Weithers. “Prayer is a call to surrender; Protest is a call to accountability; Promise is a call to action.”

Related Links

- More about Black History Month
- The story behind "Hidden Figures"
- What is NASA?
- Upcoming BSCF Events
- Black History Month 2016 at Andrews University

Contact:

PR

pr@andrews.edu

269-471-3322