The annual Faculty & Staff Awards Celebration, held March 3, 2019, in the Howard Performing Arts Center, featured faculty and staff at Andrews University who are world changers in their work on campus and around the globe. The focal point of the lobby decor was a laser-cut ice sculpture of the world lit with blue lights. Attendees were treated to a delicious meal and hot drinks while they fellowshiped in the lobby.

The program began with a warm welcome and blessing by President Andrea Luxton. The host for the event was Everett Wiles, assistant professor of broadcast journalism in the Department of Visual Art, Communication & Design. Four examples of world-changing activities were interspersed with the faculty and staff awards throughout the evening. The first segment, "World Changing Innovators," was presented by Bill Wolfer, Department of Computing chair. Each member of the audience received a first-edition American Innovators coin and Wolfer inspired everyone to contribute their talents and ideas to the new Center for Innovation & Entrepreneurship. At the conclusion of each segment, a prize drawing was held.

Adriana Perera, chair of the Department of Music, coordinated the second presentation, titled "Changing the World One Note at a Time." Max Keller, assistant professor of music, performed his original composition "Sunflower" on the trumpet, accompanied by Emily Jurek. Perera was then joined by Karin Thompson, associate professor of music, to share how their weekly Beyond Bars Ministry was positively influencing Andrews students and staff as well as the inmates.

“World Changing Compassion” was the theme of the third presentation by Ingrid Slikkers, assistant professor of social work. She focused on the work Andrews students and faculty were doing with Bethany Christian Services to assist unaccompanied minors who are temporarily placed in their care. After leading the audience through a few quick exercises to demonstrate how they calm the children when needed, Slikkers spoke about the skill and compassion exhibited by Andrews students who have been on the frontlines of helping.

The final segment was “World Changers During the Polar Vortex,” showcasing the dedication and hard work of staff in the areas of Campus Safety, Transportation and Grounds/Arboretum. Ben Panigot, director of Campus Safety, Martin Bradfield, manager of Transportation, and David Logan, assistant manager of Grounds/Arboretum, highlighted some statistics of manpower and materials needed to get the campus through an extremely cold week in January. The audience gave them a standing ovation in appreciation.

At the conclusion of the night, Artur Stele, board chair, expressed his appreciation for the people and service of Andrews University, closing the evening with a prayer of blessing.

The following faculty and staff were honored for their years of service to Andrews University as well as for excellence in service, teaching, faith development, research and creative scholarship, and championing wellness.
