Tradition claims that the Lemonweir River was named for a dream. Prior to the War of 1812, an Indian runner was dispatched with a war belt of wampum with a request for the Dakotas and Chippewas to meet at the big bend of the Wisconsin River (Portage). While camped on the banks of the Lemonweir, the runner dreamed that he had lost his belt of wampum at his last sleeping place. On waking in the morning, he found his dream to be a reality and he hastened back to retrieve the belt. During the 1820's, the French-Canadian fur traders called the river, La memoire - the memory.

The Lemonweir rises in the extensive swamps and marshes in Monroe County. The river divides Juneau County into two topographic areas. The region north of the Lemonweir River Valley, which comprises two-thirds of the county, is a nearly level sand plain covered with marshes and swamps. The southern one-third of the county is a rugged, highland plateau, dissected in every direction by valleys and ravines.

The river has given its name to Lemonweir Township, the East Lemonweir Lutheran Church, the Lemonweir Valley Press, etc.

INTRODUCTION

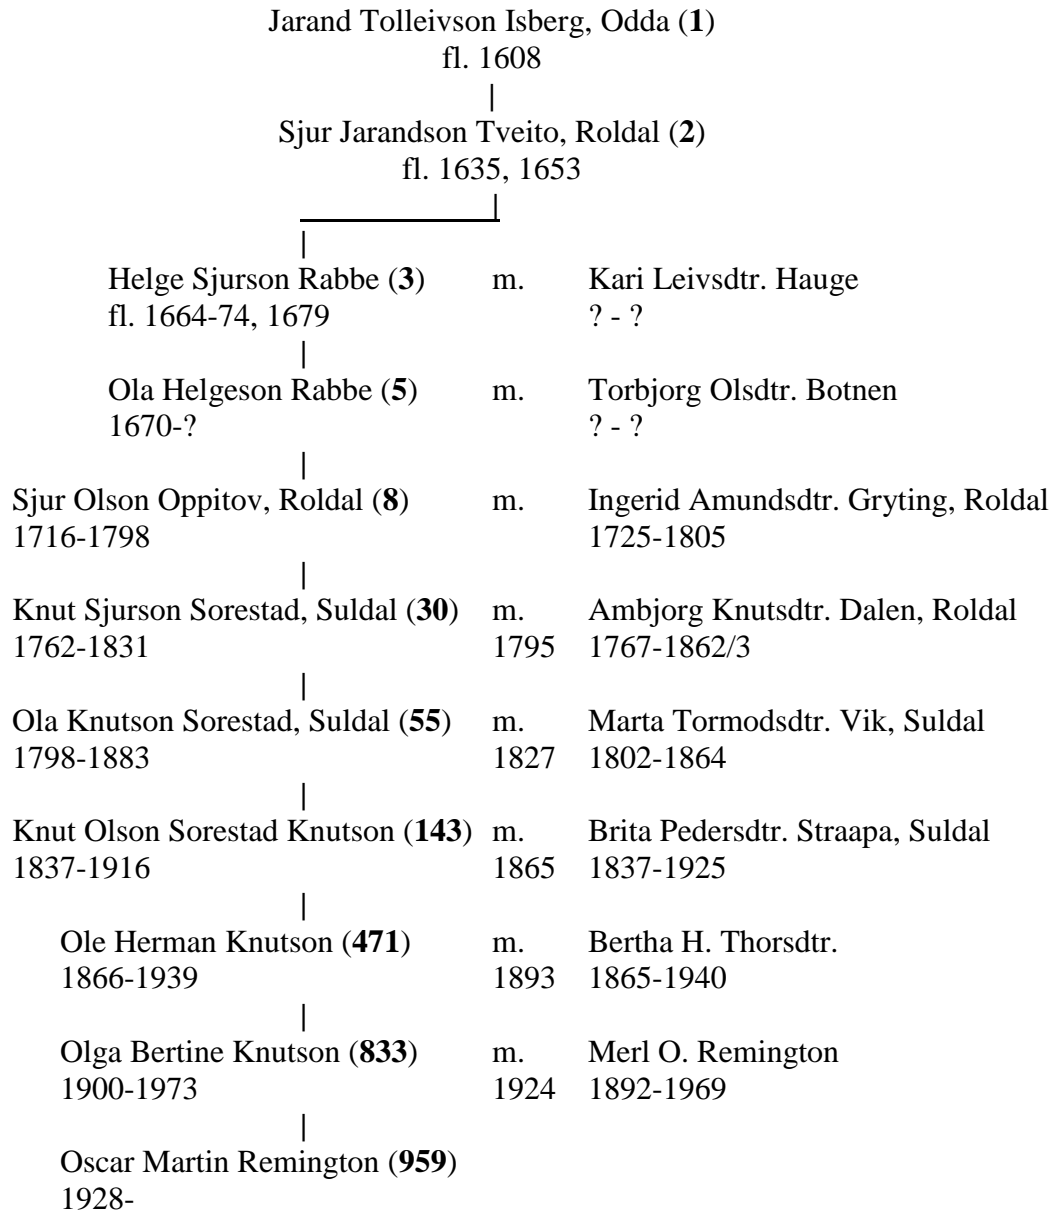

Sources for the Norwegian portion of this genealogy include the Roldal Bygdebok, Gamle Suldal, the Norwegian censuses, and online church records when they are available.

The 1701 Norwegian census was enumerated in September 1701 and included all males about the age of one. The census did not include cities nor did it include Finmark. Large portions of the census for Eastern Norway and Agder have been lost. The census headings gave the farmers social status, the name of the farm, the name of the farmer or the tenant farmer and their ages, the names of their sons and where they lived, the ages of the sons, and names of male servants and their ages.

The 1801 and 1865 censuses are the most useful for our purposes. The 1801 census was taken on February 1, 1801 and included all household members. The 1865 census was taken on December 31, 1865 and included all household members. Ages were given as of the next birthday. This census includes the number of farm animals and the size of the 1865 harvest.

This genealogy is part of the prosopographical study: Suldal Norwegian-American Settlement Families in Juneau County, Wisconsin.

126 Haakon, the son of Knut Oeverland Knutson and Anna Sjursdr. Grove (53), was born in 1822 in Roldal Township, Hordaland County, Norway. He was married to Kari Nilsdatter. Kari was born in 1815-18 in Norway.

Haakon, Kari and their children emigrated to Wisconsin in 1853. The records show that they left Suldal on May 24, 1853 and came by way of Quebec, Canada (www.hist.uib.no/arkivverket/index-en.htm). On July 18, 1857, Haakon sold land in section 32 of Fountain Township to Ole Kittleson. On August 13, 1859, Ellen Kittleson, Ole's widow, and her three sons returned a portion of that land to Haakon to pay off the original mortgage of $113. Haakon and Kari joined the East Lemonweir Church in 1858.

I believe that Haakon and Kari appear in the 1860, 1870, and 1880 censuses although their ages are wildly inaccurate. Haakon was a witness at his dau Sirine's wedding in 1867.

Ninth Generation

Knut Ormson

152 Knut, the son of Orm Torson Mo (63) and Ingeborg Larsdatter Moen, Vinje, was born on the Mo farm in Suldal, Norway on June 20, 1820. On his twenty-third birthday, June 20, 1843, he married Kari Osmundsatter Vetrhus. Kari, the daughter of Osmund Osmundson Vetrhus (1782-1844) and Angjer Bjednesdatter (1780-1840), was born on December 14, 1814 in Suldal and baptized on January 1, 1815. An alternate spelling of Vetrhus was Winterhus. Knut purchased farm number 2 on the Mokleiv place in 1848. However, in November 1849, Knut and Kari emigrated to America (Gamle Suldal, pp. 107, 520).

Knut and his family were the beginning of the connection between Suldal, Norway and Juneau County, Wisconsin. He and his family initially stopped in Dane County, Wisconsin, part of the Koshkonong Norwegian Settlement. Knut became acquainted with Nils Bjornson Farastad and Ole Johnson Magnushomen from Upper Telemark. In the Spring of 1850, Bjornson and Johnson had taken up claims in present Lindina Township about five miles southwest of Mauston.

In 1850, the area that is now Juneau County was part of Adams County. In 1857, Juneau County was created. Mauston (Maughs Mill) was named for Milton M. Maughs who came into possession of the lumber mill there in 1849. Maughs platted Mauston in 1854, which was incorporated as a village in 1860.

Knut and his family along with the Knut Mikkelson family from Roldal Township in Hordaland County joined the Bjornson and Johnson families when they returned to Juneau County in the autumn of 1850. Nils Bjornson was the eldest so he had first choice of land. He took land in section five across the road from the present Suldal Cemetery. Knut Ormson chose the land which is now the Riley farm (1998) near the junction of present Suldal and Felland roads because the soil was black as far as he could thrust his knife and in Brewer Creek was a spring that he called "the water of life." Their homes that autumn were hay stack houses with a log frame and hay for the roof and walls. The men soon built their log houses and made a permanent settlement (Mauston Star, June 2, 1887, p. 1).

As a new immigrant, Knut probably worked for a time as a farm hand or lumberjack. In the 1855 Wisconsin State Census, none of the Norwegian settlers are listed in Lindina Township. The few that were listed were all in Necedah, which was the lumbermill center for Juneau County.

By 1854, the small Norwegian community had grown to 12 families and 43 individuals. On May 22, 1854, a letter was sent to Pastor Herman A. Preus of Spring Prairie in Dane County asking for a visit by a Norwegian clergyman once or twice a year.

Preus came the first time on July 25, 1854 and held church services and organized the Lemonweir congregation in the home of Nils Bjornson. There was no bridge across Brewer Creek and Preus had to be carried across. Knut guarded the minister's horses and buggy during the night to prevent them from being stolen by Indians. In the 1850s, the Winnebago Indians had their summer village in Lindina Township, southwest of Mauston and east of the Norwegian settlement.

Kari probably died between August 24, 1857 and March 18, 1858 because Knut took communion with his wife on the first date and without his wife on the second date. Knut was married second, in 1860 to Ellen Oleson, a widow with three children. Eldri, the daughter of Johannes Gunnarson Braatveit (1787-1866) and Brita Jonesdr. Arhus (1773-1857), was born on January 26, 1819 in Suldal, Norway. She was married, first, to Ole Kittelson (Kjetilson). Ole was born in 1814 in Tinn Township in Telemark County. Ole and Eldri moved to the Tengesdal farm in Sand Township where they had three sons, Johannes, born on January 6, 1846, Ole, born on June 2, 1850, and Gunder, born on June 6, 1854. Ole and Ellen brought their children to Mauston, Wisconsin in 1857. Ole died in September 1859 (Gamle Suldal, pp. 576-7; Sukka Aetta, p. 141, ELCR).

Knut and Ellen were living on his farm in Lindina Township at the time of the 1860 federal census. Knut's four children and Ellen's three children are listed in the census record.

By 1860, Knut had expanded his farm to 80 acres, 50 of it under cultivation. The previous year's crops totaled 300 bushels of wheat, 300 bushels of oats and lesser amounts of corn and rye. He owned three milk cows, which produced 70 pounds of butter for market. His seven sheep produced 50 pounds of wool. The farm also produced eight bushels of potatoes and three tons of hay. His land was valued at $1,000 and he owned $128 in personal property. Ellen died at age 44 in 1863.

Knut married for a third time on January 16, 1864 in Juneau County, Wisconsin by E. W. Leonard, Justice of the Peace, to Herborg Halvorsdatter Viken. Herborg, the daughter of Halvor Steinbru Halvorson (1803-1880) and Helga Johnsdtr. Steinbru (1809-1896), was born on Vika farm in Suldal Township on October 26, 1836. She emigrated with her parents in April 1863. Herborg was 27 and Knut was 43 when they were married. It was a double wedding ceremony with Herborg's brother, Halvor Halvorson. Knut and Herborg were charter members of the Fountain Church in 1878.

In 1864, Knut's first wife's younger brothers, Bjedne and Osmund, Knut's widowed mother, Ingeborg, and his sister, Disa, emigrated to Juneau County. By 1870, Knut was a wealthy farmer with a 190 acre farm in Lindina Township valued at $10,000. On the 100 acres tilled, he raised 1,000 bushels of wheat and 900 bushels of oats. His personal property was valued at $600, his livestock nearly $700 more. There were two frame houses and probably three log houses on the property.

Knut had five cows which had produced 200 pounds of butter for sale that year. He also owned two horses, three mules, five sheep, and five hogs. The farm supported 21 persons. Besides Knut, his wife Herborg, and five unmarried children were Knut's son, O. K (Osmund) Ormson, his wife, Angjer, and their year old daughter, Ellen Karine, Knut's stepson, John Oleson, and Thomas Houskoldsen. The three men were hired hands for Knut. Also living on the farm were Knut's widowed mother, Herborg, and her widowed daughter-in-law, Hannah (Anna) Johnson who kept house for her (see Johannes Ormson, # 155). In yet another household were Disa Ormson, Knut's unmarried sister, and Hannah's four children. In another cabin was Betsy Johnson, an unidentified woman.

In 1871, Knut paid the passage for his 21-year old nephew, Gabriel Ormson to emigrate. Gabriel lived with Knut for a time. The 1870s were bad times for Wisconsin farmers. Knut sold his farm in Lindina and moved to a smaller farm in the Rocky Run Community in Clifton Township, Vernon County, Wisconsin. The farm was near his son O.K. Ormson's farm home. Knut worked as a blacksmith for his son, O. K Ormson.

Knut died in Rocky Run, Clifton Township, Monroe County, WI on April 23, 1886 at the age of 66. He was buried in the Fountain Lutheran Cemetery. His headstone reads, "Fred med hans Stove Velsig net vare hans Minde" (Peace with his sleep, blessed his memory). Herborg continued to live on the farm in Clifton Township. She died on May 24, 1914 in Clifton Township, Monroe County, Wisconsin and was buried on May 26, 1914 from the Fountain Church (FCR; Bk 3, p. 247).

Mari Ormsdtr. Mo

154 Mari, , the daughter of Orm Torson Mo (63) and Ingeborg Larsdtr. Moen, Vinje, was born on January 25, 1826 in Suldal, Norway. She was married on October 18, 1850 in Suldal, Norway to Gabriel Johnson Kvamen. Gabriel, the son of Jon Tormodson (Lunde) Quammen and Ingrid Bjornsdr. Berge, was born in 1829 in Suldal, Norway. His parents and brother, John, and family came to Juneau County in 1861. His brother, Ole, and family came to Juneau County in 1882.

Mari and Gabriel joined the East Lemonweir Church in August 1857. They appeared in the 1860 census for Mauston.

Jacob came to the United States in 1908, leaving Liverpool, England on October 9th and arriving at the port of New York on October 16th on the ship, Mauritania.

In 1914, Emma and Jacob were living in Plymouth Township on section 11 (80 acres). Jacob joined the East Lemonweir Church on August 30, 1914. They were interviewed in 1947 by Magne Oftedal, a research associate and field worker for Einar Haugen, who wrote, The Norwegian Language in America, 1969, reprint. See after this record pages quoting specimens of American Norwegian by Jacob and his son Tilmur. Jacob's occupation was given as a miller. Haugen quoted Jacob about the difficulty a newcomer from Norway had in understanding the changes made in the Norwegian-American language that developed. Haugen described Jacob as an immigrant of 1908, who found himself in a farming community of Western Wisconsin. Even though the dialect of Suldal was universally spoken in Juneau County, Jacob found “there they were, talking genuine Suldal, and they all talked alike. But whether they talked Suldal or they talked French made no difference at all to me, for I did not understand a word. They were chatting about ‘baren’ and ‘fila’ and ‘sheden’ and ‘malkshantie’, ‘vinnmoello’ and ‘pompo’ and all those words. I couldn’t understand about nintey per cent of all the words they used. I couldn’t understand it because all the names were half or wholly English. They talked about ‘mekar’ (makes) and ‘fiksar’ (fixes) and so forth. . . . But when I went to church, the preacher preached so fine, you see, just as they did in Norway, and I understood every word.”, Haugen, p. 59.

Emma died on August 18, 1965. Jacob died on November 5, 1969 in Elroy. They were both buried in the Elroy City Cemetery (Gamle Suldal, pp. 434,673-4; Sukka Aetta, p. 342; ELCR; JGS, 2-30).
